

-- HARDENBROECK --

The family groups represented in this collection may not be complete, because information was entered bit by bit as I found it or happened upon it; I have not done any systematic research on these families. Because they do not compose whole family genealogies, these listings are arranged differently from most genealogical records or histories. Each listing is a family group, and is arranged and filed alphabetically under the name of the head of the family.

Names are generally in alphabetical order (disregarding spelling variations and middle names), then in approx. chronological order. The first sorting is by surname (mixing together any and all spelling variations), then by given name, then by approximate birthdate (when known) in approximate chronological order. For easier reference, surnames in headings are grouped together under the most common spelling usage that evolved in this geographical location, regardless of individualistic spellings in the records themselves. Cross references are used in most cases where surname spellings substantially vary.

Within the quoted records, the individual spellings have been (mostly) retained because they sometimes provide clues (although in general—but with exceptions—they seem to largely reflect the record keeper's particular orthography and not always, at this early period, any special family preference). Those interested can see the variety and evolvement of a particular name's spelling and the interesting and sometimes amusing attempts at phonetic reproduction. Keep in mind that before names and spellings were standardized, records reflected the individualistic whim of the particular recorder (often two different spellings of the same name within the same document). In addition, all records were handwritten, and sometimes deciphering a handwritten name in early records can be quite challenging! So expect to search under all possibilities of spelling (for both surnames and given names).

Given names are grouped together without regard for middle initials or middle names. Because middle names and/or initials are sometimes used, sometimes not used in various records, it seemed simplest to arrange entries as if the middle names or initials did not exist. Usually all variations of a given name are grouped together as though spelled one way: Jan, Johannes, John, etc. are all grouped as one (but also look under the other forms).

Sources and references are included with each "family" grouping, but may or may not include sources that are cited (or are obvious, such as baptismal records, etc.) within the narrative or listing itself.

As with any compiled genealogical record, researchers should regard this information as leads and clues, and should verify all data with independent research.

I welcome, and would be grateful for, any additions or corrections, especially with source citations.

Hardenbroeck, Adolph (Adolphus) (originally Hoddenbruch³)

Adolph Hardenbroeck

m.

Maritje Caterberg (Merg Katernberg)²

In Rhenish Prussia, 16 miles east of Dusseldorf, it the town of Elberfeld, on the Wipper River. From this town, the Hardenbroek family emigrated to New Amsterdam by way of the Netherlands. Adolph Hardenbroek, the progenitor of the family, sailed on De Trouw from the Texel on 23 Dec 1660 with his wife and a 25-year-old son. He was not the first member of his family to reach these shores; a son and a daughter had preceded him.³

He was in Bergen on the west side of the Hudson before 1662, as in that year he signed a petition with other inhabitants regarding the bounds of Bergen and Comunipaw, and in 1665 he took the oath of allegiance at Bergen, New Jersey. A good authority states that he was the father of Johannes, who came over in 1664.

No inconsiderable factor in Philipse's advancement in fortune was his marriage in 1662 to Margaret Hardenbroek, widow of Pieter Rudolphus De Vries. She possessed both beauty and education, and in addition had a great talent for business. She accompanied De Vries on his excursions as a fur-trader, and as she had her own ships to carry the peltries to the Netherlands, she and her husband secured all the profit in the trade without the deductions of middle men. She bought and sold on her own account, and often went to Holland to look after the affairs of herself and her commercial associates.¹

Susannah

In the first marriage they were: Johannes Hardenbroeck, j. m. Van Amsterd., en Sara Van Laer, j. d. Van N. Yorke, beyde woonende alhier.

He was a member from New York City of the General Assembly of the Province of New York, as shown by an act passed by that body, December 12, 1722: "An act for paying E. Wilson, J. Van Horn, A. Gouveneur and Sarah the Widdow or Relict of Johannes Hardenbroeck deceased for serving in the General Assembly. These are late members for the City & County of New York who have never been paid as the rest of the members have in other Countys.

In his will, he wrote: I, Johanes Hardenbrook, of New York, merchant. I leave to my eldest son Andries £6, when of age. I leave all the rest of my estate, real and personal, to my wife Susanah during her life, but she is not to have power to sell any real estate, except a certain lot of ground lying and being in Queens street over against the house of Peter Ryckman. But if need be, she may mortgage land to the extent of £200. After the decease of my wife all estate is to be divided among my children, Andries, Christoffel, Adolphus, Johanes, Gerardus, Catharine and Maritie. I appoint my friends Nicholas Rosevelt and Garrett Van Laer, guardians of my children, and make my wife executer. Witnesses, Marten Clock, Hendrick Van der heuil. Proved, August 27, 1714.
