The family groups represented in this collection may not be complete, because information was entered bit by bit as I found it or happened upon it; I have not done any systematic research on these families. Because they do not compose whole family genealogies, these listings are arranged differently from most genealogical records or histories. Each listing is a family group, and is arranged and filed alphabetically under the name of the head of the family.

Names are generally in alphabetical order (disregarding spelling variations and middle names), then in approx. chronological order. The first sorting is by surname (mixing together any and all spelling variations), then by given name, then by approximate birthdate (when known) in approximate chronological order. For easier reference, surnames in headings are grouped together under the most common spelling usage that evolved in this geographical location, regardless of individualistic spellings in the records themselves. Cross references are used in most cases where surname spellings substantially vary.

Within the quoted records, the individual spellings have been (mostly) retained because they sometimes provide clues (although in general—but with exceptions—they seem to largely reflect the record keeper's particular orthography and not always, at this early period, any special family preference). Those interested can see the variety and evolution of a particular name's spelling and the interesting and sometimes amusing attempts at phonetic reproduction. Keep in mind that before names and spellings were standardized, records reflected the individualistic whim of the particular recorder (often two different spellings of the same name within the same document). In addition, all records were handwritten, and sometimes deciphering a handwritten name in early records can be quite challenging! So expect to search under all possibilities of spelling (for both surnames and given names).

Given names are grouped together without regard for middle initials or middle names. Because middle names and/or initials are sometimes used, sometimes not used in various records, it seemed simplest to arrange entries as if the middle names or initials did not exist. Usually all variations of a given name are grouped together as though spelled one way: Jan, Johannes, John, etc. are all grouped as one (but also look under the other forms).

Sources and references are included with each "family" grouping, but may or may not include sources that are cited (or are obvious, such as baptismal records, etc.) within the narrative or listing itself.

As with any compiled genealogical record, researchers should regard this information as leads and clues, and should verify all data with independent research.

Edward Hart lived in the Flushing, Queens Co. area of New York from 1630 until his death in 1665. Edward originated from Braintree, Essex County, England, had two sons, Jonathan (b.1642) and James(b.1650).

Edward Hart was one of the patentees to whom the original Charter for Flushing was granted on 10 Oct 1645. He was the Town Clerk of Flushing when he wrote the "Flushing Remonstrance" in 1657. The Remonstrance was the first written statement of religious freedom made in the Colonies. He was subsequently sentenced to one year in jail by the Dutch authorities. A pardon of Edward Hart, town clerk of Flushing, was issued on Jan 23, 1658.

Hart, Monmouth

Monmouth Hart

m.

Sarah

In his will, he wrote: ...July 30, 1759. I, Monmouth Hart, of the town of Rye, in Westchester County, being of perfect mind. I leave to my wife Sarah the use of the house where I now dwell (except one room for my son James). Also the use of 1/3 of all lands on Budd's Neck, and the profit of my right in Rye ferry, And 2 beds, and my Great chair, and 2 cows. I leave to my son Joseph all that parcel of land which I purchased of Thomas Merritt, lying in the White Plains, Also my sword and belt and my ivory headed cane. I leave to my son, Monmouth Hart, a certain parcel of land in the White Plains, on the east and south side of the road and adjoining the lands of Elijah Purdy, Daniel Ferris, and Samuel Haight. Also my right in the Rye ferry after my wife's death. "Also the sword that he commonly wears," I leave to my youngest son, James, all that my lot, dwelling house, and all lands, meadows, and sedges thereto belonging, and the use of the room where he now dwells until the death of my wife, and then the said room to go to my eldest daughter, Sarah, "so long as she pleases to dwell in it." I also leave him my guns, I leave to my daughter Sarah the bond from Mr. John Smith, dated February 14, 1746, also a bed. I leave to my youngest daughter, Anna, wife of John Guion, a bed and furniture. If there is any surplus of movable estate after payment of debts and funeral charges, it is to go to my wife and daughters. And I make my wife and my 3 sons executors. Witnesses, Henry Griffin, Joseph Coon. Proved, September 26, 1761.
