

-- JACKSON --

The family groups represented in this collection may not be complete, because information was entered bit by bit as I found it or happened upon it; I have not done any systematic research on these families. Because they do not compose whole family genealogies, these listings are arranged differently from most genealogical records or histories. Each listing is a family group, and is arranged and filed alphabetically under the name of the head of the family.

Names are generally in alphabetical order (disregarding spelling variations and middle names), then in approx. chronological order. The first sorting is by surname (mixing together any and all spelling variations), then by given name, then by approximate birthdate (when known) in approximate chronological order. For easier reference, surnames in headings are grouped together under the most common spelling usage that evolved in this geographical location, regardless of individualistic spellings in the records themselves. Cross references are used in most cases where surname spellings substantially vary.

Within the quoted records, the individual spellings have been (mostly) retained because they sometimes provide clues (although in general—but with exceptions—they seem to largely reflect the record keeper's particular orthography and not always, at this early period, any special family preference). Those interested can see the variety and evolvement of a particular name's spelling and the interesting and sometimes amusing attempts at phonetic reproduction. Keep in mind that before names and spellings were standardized, records reflected the individualistic whim of the particular recorder (often two different spellings of the same name within the same document). In addition, all records were handwritten, and sometimes deciphering a handwritten name in early records can be quite challenging! So expect to search under all possibilities of spelling (for both surnames and given names).

Given names are grouped together without regard for middle initials or middle names. Because middle names and/or initials are sometimes used, sometimes not used in various records, it seemed simplest to arrange entries as if the middle names or initials did not exist. Usually all variations of a given name are grouped together as though spelled one way: Jan, Johannes, John, etc. are all grouped as one (but also look under the other forms).

Sources and references are included with each "family" grouping, but may or may not include sources that are cited (or are obvious, such as baptismal records, etc.) within the narrative or listing itself.

As with any compiled genealogical record, researchers should regard this information as leads and clues, and should verify all data with independent research.

I welcome, and would be grateful for, any additions or corrections, especially with source citations.

He may be the Jack Jackson who was a servant of Michael Ryers. Ryers devised, by his will, property in Park Ridge, to his servant, Jack Jackson. Jack Jackson's saw mill stood on the east side of Spring Valley Road in Park Ridge, and to the north of Mill Brook. The mill pond was formerly on the west side of the road with mill race to the mill. Jackson's homestead also stood on the west side of the road. He acquired the land in 1832 and the mill was in existence before 1856. Jackson's daughter, Hannah Demarest, sold the property in 1912.¹

Colonel John Jackson was a prominent public man, and one of the first settlers of Jerusalem, L. I. Member of Assembly, January 11, 1664; Member Commission to Governor Stuyvesant, 1685; Patentee of land, 1687; Captain of Queens Troops in expedition to Albany, July 9, 1689; Juryman, 1691 to 1695; High Sheriff of Queens County, 1693 to 1709 and 1710 to 1716; Representative from Queens County to Colonial Legislature, 1699; Justice of the Peace of Queens County, 1700; Lieutenant Colonel, 1701; Colonel, December 30, 1701; Member of Protestant Petition to King William III, 1703; Commissioner of Highways, 1710 to 1723; Judge of Queens County.

They had eight children, of whom seven are on the census list of 1698:

In his will, he wrote: August 26, 1724. I, John Jackson, of Hempstead, in Queens County, Esq., being well in body. I leave to my son, Samuel Jackson, the house and land that I now dwell upon at Jerusalem, beginning at the northwest corner of the land by the south side of the road that parts my land and the Seaman's tract of land, and so to run on the east side of the road that leads to the South till it comes to the fence on the south side of my young orchard, and so to run east as the fence stands till it cometh to the fence that parts my son John Jackson's land and my land that I now dwell on, and then to run east as the fence stands, to the east end of it; and from thence a due east line to the east end of my land; and then to run north as the lines of my land runs to the north side of it, and then as the path goeth to the bounds first mentioned; also the land where his house standeth, bounded west by the road that leads to South, south by land of Joshua Barnes, north by fence that parts the land of my son John and my land that I now dwell on. And these pieces are to contain one half of my tract of land that lyeth in a body at Jerusalem. I leave to my son John the tract of land where he now dwelleth at Jerusalem, being the equal 1/2 of said tract of land; also 3 lots of meadow and all the upland on the "Half Neck," so called; also a piece of land on the Great Neck, above the Indian path or road across the Neck, adjoining to the Half Neck brook, 24 acres which he now hath in his possession; Also my 3 1/2 lots of meadow on the Great Neck, to the west of the Parsonage lot of meadow, bounded west by the Ditch, and all the upland that lyeth above the said meadow and to the neck fence, westward of Ireland's path; also 1/2 of that piece of land on the west side of Great Neck, north of the 8 acre lot, including my 8 acre lot I bought of Peter Titus, and south of Joshua Barnes' land. And he is to have the north end of the piece of land adjoining to Joshua Barnes' land. I leave to my son Samuel all my meadow and upland on the east side of Great Neck, bounded west by the Parsonage meadow, south by Ireland's path, north by the neck and east by the Half Neck brook; also that parcel of land and meadow lying on the Great Neck, east of the 8 acre lot and west of the path to South; Also the south half of the lot above the 8 acre lot including 1/2 of the 8 acre lot I bought of Peter Titus; Also another piece of land lying on the east side of Joshua Barnes' homestead, and west of the 50 acre lot; being 34 acres and 148 rods; also 50 acres of land lying between Jerusalem swamp and Birdsall's swamp, bounded east by Jerusalem brook, and west by the brook of Birdsall's swamp, north by Thomas Seaman and running west to Birdsall's swamp or Little meadow brook, and extending down south till it makes 50 acres; Also my house and barn and 4 home lots in the Town Plot of Hempstead, and one lot of meadow he now has. I also leave to him John Hewes' right in the undivided lands of Hempstead. I leave to my son John 79 acres of land to be taken up on my right in the Town of Hempstead; also 100 acres to be taken up on the same right. I leave to my son, James Jackson, 156 acres of land to be taken up on my right. And I leave to my three sons all the remainder of my estate in Hempstead or elsewhere, both divided and undivided, and Hollows on the Plains, and Ox Pasture rights in both Ox Pastures, and all my rights in the Patent of Hempstead. I leave to my daughter, Elizabeth Doughty, a negro girl. To my daughter, Martha Titus, another negro girl called "Nanny," "I will that the first girl that Nanny hath after the date of these presents, shall be to my daughter Hannah Seaman, and she shall have it when it is fit to wean." "And when my daughter Martha dieth, then Nanny shall be to my grand-daughter, Elizabeth Titus." "I leave to my son-in-law, Jeckomiah Scott, the negro woman he has in his possession, until his youngest children are of age, and then she or her value shall be divided among his four daughters." I leave to my daughter, Sarah Barnes, a negro girl. To my daughter, Elizabeth Doughty, my best bed, and to the four daughters of my daughter, Mary Scott, deceased, my next best bed. I make my trusty friends, Captain John Tredwell and my three sons, executors. Witnesses, Timothy Bayley, Daniel Jones, William Willis. Proved at Court of Common Pleas, Queens County, December 6, 1725. [Note.--The above is the will of one of the most prominent citizens of Queens County. Jeckomiah Scott, one of the sons in law, lived at Southampton, Suffolk County, and was son of the famous Captain John Scott, whose numerous escapades are a very important chapter in Long Island history. Joshua Barnes, another son in law, was born in Southampton, April 8, 1683. He was the son of Samuel Barnes who married Patience, daughter of Robert Williams, who was the proprietor of Robert Williams' "Purchase," now Jericho, in Queens County. They were married November 9, 1676. Samuel Barnes was the son of Joshua Barnes, of Southampton, who lived on the homestead now owned by William S. Pelletreau. Joshua Barnes (son of Samuel) sold the homestead to his brother-in-law, Captain Jeckomiah Scott, and went to Queens County. He afterward removed to Westchester, and some of the families of that name are descended from him.--W. S. P.]

Robert Jackson was one of the original proprietors of Hempstead, L.I. in 1644, and one of its most influential residents over the next forty years. He was recorded as schepen (magistrate) in 1660 and in 1662 Director-General Stuyvesant also named him commissaris of Hempstead. In 1665, after the English takeover, he was one of two delegates from Hempstead to a convention held to draft the "Duke's Laws." In 1665 he began serving as constable

He owned considerable property in Hempstead, including a tract in the eastern part of the town, encompassing what is today Wantagh. There he built his house and spent the rest of his days.

His will was dated 25 May 1683 and was probated 13 Oct 1685, though he may have died some time prior, as he does not appear on the Hempstead assessment roll of 11 Oct 1683.

Jackson, William

William Jackson

m. 24 Jan 1694

Anna Hartmans Wessels

son of	NYC Ref Ch	dau. of Hartman/Hermanus Wessels &
	(banns: 5 Jan 1694	(1) Agatha Van Zalen
b. Edinburgh, Scotland	NYC Ref Ch)	b. New York City
d. before 11 June 1718		d.

In the NYC Ref Ch record of their banns and marriage, they were: Wiljam Jackson, j.m. Van Edenburg, en Anna Wessels, j.d. Van N. Yorck, beyde wonende alhier.

William Jackson, a native of Edinburgh, arrived in New York City in the fall of 1685 aboard the ship Henry and Francis of New Castle, "a ship of three hundred and fifty Tun and twenty great guns, Richard Hutton, Master." The ship had been chartered by George Scot, the Laird of Pitlochrie, and sailed out of Leith, Scotland, on the fifth of September, with two hundred Scots. The Laird of Pitlochrie had been persecuted and put in prison a number of times and had paid large fines for attending conventicles and associating with those who "kept conventicles." William Jackson had been banished with the Laird for like reasons. It is probable that his father's name was Robert Jackson, for that was the name of his first born son, and in both the Scottish tradition and the Dutch tradition of his wife, this son would have been named for the paternal grandfather.¹

William Jackson and his wife Anna Wessels lived for many years at 19 Pearl Street (torn down in 1907) in Lower Manhattan and attended the Dutch Reformed Church, where their eight children were baptized between 1694 and 1707. However, William Jackson was a zealous Presbyterian, and on a Sunday in January of 1707, he opened his house for the first divine service in that faith in New York City. The pastor officiating on this occasion was the Reverend Francis Makemie, a Presbyterian minister who had recently arrived from Scotland and who later was the minister at Rehobeth in Somerset County, Maryland. For this act, Lord Cornbury, Queen Anne's cousin and the royal governor of New York, had him, with a companion, confined in the city jail for two months.¹

The will of William Jackson was dated July 5, 1711, and probated in New York County, June 11, 1718. He describes himself as "William Jackson of New York, cordwainer," and he made his wife Anne (Anna) and the Reverend Master Bernardus Freeman of Flatbush "on Nassau, alias Long Island" and Mr. John Van Horn of New York, the executors of his will. He left his wife the use of the estate for life, and he left to her discretion the portions to be divided among their children at her death, except for œ16 silver money which he left to his eldest son, Robert, when of age (Abstracts of Unrecorded Wills Prior to 1790 on File in the Surrogate's Office, City of New York, (N.Y. Historical Society, 1902, v. 11, p. 22).¹

d. before 7 Oct 1767 d. before 7 Oct 1767

In his will, he wrote: ...I, William Jackson, of Goshen, in Orange County, being very sick. I leave to my daughter Elizabeth "my two best beds and a set of Callaco Curtains," and a black walnut cupboard, a looking glass, a horse, and her deceased mother's wearing apparell, and £50, "which is in lieu of some cattle she claims among my stock." To my daughter Sarah 2 beds, and £50, when 18, and she is to live with my daughter Elizabeth. I leave to my son Daniel a horse, and my chest, 1/2 of my wearing apparell, "and my Beaver Hatt." To my son Silas 1/2 of my apparell. All the rest of my movables to be sold at public vendue, in a year. The farm where I now live is to be sold at private sale in two years, and the proceeds to my sons, Daniel, Silas, George, Michael, and William. I leave to my 5 sons each 1/5 of all my undivided lands in the Patent of Wawayanda. My executors are to sell, in conjunction with my brother, Michael Jackson, a certain lot of land "lying near Shugar Loof," and joining the farm of Nathaniel Roe, in said Patent, which is laid out between my said brother and myself, and contains 26 acres. And I give my part to my daughter Elizabeth, to enable her to bring up my daughter Sarah. "My sons are to have Education fit and necessary for Tradesmen, and they are to be put to trades." I make my brother, Michael Jackson, and my brother-in-law, Matthew Howell, executors. Witnesses, Joseph Rider, Samuel Stubs, Elinor Jackson. Proved, October 7, 1767.
